

Chris Hyams is the fourth-generation owner of his family's business, Brentwood-based G.S.& S. Construction, where he took over leadership of the company in 2015. Chris reports being driven by working for the right people and making a fair profit. Chris has expanded the company scope of services to be a full-service general contractor, specializing in tenant improvements, industrial buildings and more.

In addition to serving on Frontenac's Planning & Zoning Commission, Chris is involved with the Boy Scouts, Missouri Athletic Club and the Ronald McDonald House.